BIO

My name is William Kendrick and I am an aspiring actor from Dublin. I hold a bachelor degree in electronic engineering, my first experience of drama came from the Gaiety school of acting introductory course, I later joined a theatre company called out of the blue. After this I studied a performance diploma from the guildhall in London at Inchicore college and continued on to the Irish film academy. I have trained in various acting techniques from Improvisation, Mime, Meisner, Shakespeare to spending a month in Italy training in commedia dell'arte, I have been in various short films, commercials, theatre productions and I have made a few small appearances in tv series such as RAW. I later moved to Australia and took some time away from Acting to live and work abroad. I have spent the last 9 months working with David Scott in the actors studio and believe I am now a far better rounded actor with good life experience and training.
